Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Matsumoto et al (U.S. Patent No. 6,763,334).

Regarding claim 10, Matsumoto discloses a method for determining which non-internet advertisements direct which web clicks to a website comprising: (abstract) advertising by an internet company through use of television, radio and or newspaper ads; (see fig. 1, items 15 and 201 and col. 6, lines 45-65 and col. 7, lines 15-45: mail magazine)

providing information concerning where said ads are being run demographically and date and time adds are run to a database of a system; (col. 7, lines 4-45, also see col. 6, lines 45-65) storing information regarding said ads in said database; (see fig. 1, items 15 and 201 and col. 6, lines 45-65 and col. 7, lines 15-45)

storing times of day a person logs onto a site along with location of person logging onto said site using an IP address; (fig. 2, item 62, col. 8, lines 53-64) subtracting from said system from said stored internet information internet traffic from links from other websites and not from direct logins to said website; (col. 8, lines 53-63, col. 9, lines 46-65 and col. 10, line 8 to col. 11, line 37), comparing timing and location of advertising to timing and location of when a user logs onto said internet site; (col. 8, lines 53-63, col. 9, lines 46-65 and col. 10, line 8 to col. 11, line 37) and, determining which source of advertising caused a user to log on to said internet site (fig. 9, col. 9, lines 61-65 and col. 10, lines 31-61 see Advertisers ABC and DEF in fig. 9 and related text).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 2 and 4-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Matsumoto et al (U.S. Patent No. 6,763,334) in view of Goldberg et al (USPN. 7,496,943).

Regarding claims 1 and 7, Matsumoto discloses a system and method for determining which non-internet ads direct which web clicks to a web site comprising (abstract):

a database comprising information about a user's non-internet media buys which includes advertising on television, radio and newspaper ads (see fig. 1, items 15 and 201 and col. 6, lines 45-65 and col. 7, lines 15-45; mail magazine);

(Note: mailing magazine is one example of non-internet media buys)

an index log file optionally comprising a user's IP address and data and time user logs onto said web site (fig. 2, item 62, col. 8, lines 53-64);

said system comparing information from said first database with information from said index log file to determine which of said non-internet ads generated said web clicks and providing said information to a user (col. 10, lines 8-12);

and wherein the user's non internet buys comprises:

date and time of advertising, type of advertising, location of ad and expiration date of the ad (col. 7, lines 4-45, also see col. 6, lines 45-65).

Matsumoto does not expressly teach a second database for storing user's IP address, but does store user's referrer log showing all referring pages from which the user is led to entrance page and also optionally stores the user's IP address in the index log file (62). Note, the user's IP address does not have to be stored because Matsumoto system uses an index URL embedded in the ad which allows for the monitoring of the user's access induced by the advertisement hence the actions of the user are known without the need for user's IP address, however, optionally user's IP address may be stored (col. 8, lines 53-63).

However, Goldberg teaches an advertising system wherein two databases are used to store relevant information about advertisements and information about user affected by the advertisement (see figures 3 and 6, col. 24, line 56 to col. 24, line 22, Goldberg).

It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to store user's IP address and referrer log in a second database in the Matsumoto system as taught by Goldberg by modifying the index log file (62) to be implemented as a database. One would have been motivated to use a second database instead of an index log file to easier manipulate the data stored in the index log file and organize the information about advertisements and user activity.

Regarding claims 2 and 8, Matsumoto/Goldberg disclose the system further comprises a report that shows which ads generated the web clicks (fig. 9, col. 9, lines 61-65 and col. 10, lines 31-61 see Advertisers ABC and DEF, Matsumoto).

Regarding claim 4, Matsumoto/Goldberg disclose the information about a user's media buys further comprises demographics of the ad (col. 6, lines 59-63, Matsumoto).

Regarding claims 5 and 9, Matsumoto/Goldberg disclose the information about a user's media buys further comprises cost of the ad (col. 5, lines 22-29, Matsumoto).

Regarding claim 6, Matsumoto/Goldberg disclose a report that shows which of the web clicks do not correspond to an ad (col. 9, line 61 to col. 10, line 20, Matsumoto).

Response to Arguments

Applicants arguments filed February 16, 2010 have been fully considered but they moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. The previous relevant arguments and responses are listed below:

(Previous arguments and responses:)

Applicant previously argued that Matsumoto does not teach which non-internet ads generated the web clicks.

Examiner disagrees. Regarding claims 2 and 8, Matsumoto discloses the system further comprises a report that shows which ads generated the web clicks (fig. 9, col. 9, lines 61-65 and col. 10, lines 31-61 see Advertisers ABC and DEF in fig. 9 and related text).

In regard prior correspondence in reference to claims 4-6, note that it appears that Applicants agree with the rejections on record, see pages 8 and 9 of the 3/13/08 response.

No other arguments have been raised, hence with respect to all the pending claims 1, 2 and 4-10, Examiner respectfully traverses Applicants assertion based on the discussion and rejection cited above.
